Dear St. Philip Neri families & friends, we give praise and thanks to God for the graces He has given us! Today's readings invite us to reflect on two key virtues central to our faith; humility and trust in God's wisdom. The first reading from the Book of Wisdom presents the persecution of the righteous, while the Gospel of Mark reminds us of Christ's teaching on true greatness through humility and service. The reading from the Book of Wisdom speaks about the wicked conspiring against the righteous. The righteous person is a constant reminder to the wicked of what they are not. His very life of integrity and devotion stands as a rebuke to their selfish ways, and so they seek to destroy him. The passage foreshadows the suffering and rejection of Christ, who would be persecuted by the religious leaders of His time. The righteous one is subjected to trials and mockery because His ways are different, and His trust in God irritates those who rely only on human wisdom. It is in this moment of rejection and suffering that the righteous reveal their strength – not in retaliation or bitterness but in enduring trust in God's wisdom and justice. They recognize that true strength lies not in power or status but in their relationship with God. In today's Gospel, Jesus predicts His passion and death for the second time, but His disciples are unable to grasp the meaning. Instead of contemplating His message of suffering and sacrifice, they argue among themselves about who is the greatest. Jesus, aware of their dispute, teaches them a profound lesson on humility. He says, "If anyone wants to be first, he must be last of all and servant of all." To illustrate His point further, He takes a little child in His arms, saying, "Whoever receives one child such as this in my name, receives me." In the time of Jesus, children were among the most powerless and dependent members of society. To serve them meant to serve without expectation of reward or recognition. Jesus was inviting His disciples to adopt a spirit of humility, recognizing that greatness in the Kingdom of God is not about status, but about service to others, especially the least and the venerable. The two readings challenge us to rethink our understanding of greatness and success. In the first reading, the righteous are targeted precisely because they challenge the worldly wisdom that values power, wealth, and control. Similarly, Jesus turns the values of the world upside down by teaching that true greatness is found not in self-exaltation but in self-giving service. Both readings point to a truth that is often hard to accept; the wisdom of God is not the wisdom of the world. The world glorifies those who seem strong, powerful, and successful, but God's wisdom invites us to look deeper, to value humility, righteousness, and love. Just like the righteous one in the Book of Wisdom, we too may face ridicule, misunderstanding, or opposition for living according to God's ways. In those moments, we are called to trust in God's wisdom and justice, knowing that God is with us in our trials. Jesus calls us to serve without seeking recognition. In our families, workplaces, and communities, we are invited to place the needs of others before our own. This is the path to true greatness in God's Kingdom. Jesus' example of embracing a child challenges us to reach out to the venerable, the marginalized, and those who have no voice.

It's in serving them that we truly encounter Christ. The readings today remind us that God's wisdom is often at odds with the world's understanding of success and greatness. We are called to embrace humility, to serve others, and to trust in God even when we face trials. May we open our hearts to God's wisdom, following Christ's example of humility and love. In doing so, we will find true greatness, not in the eyes of the world, but in the eyes of God.

Please invite someone to Mass today.
St. Philip Neri, pray for us! Have a blessed week.

Your spiritually adopted baby is developing quite beautifully now. Her weight is approaching 2 lbs. She sits up straight now to accommodate her internal organs which have moved into their final place in her little body. Babies born prematurely at this time have a very good chance of surviving. The medical advances in caring for extremely small newborn infants are extraordinary indeed. Don't forget to pray for your baby. Abortion is legal through all nine months and her mom might still feel pressure to abort.

Thanks to all who contributed to the collection.

Our Church windows have been recaulked, and the Church window and door frames have been painted. Church carpets have been cleaned. The major electrical work in the school, replacing antiquated circuit breakers and boards is nearly completed, the altar lighting is being worked on as well as the school gym lighting. Your contributions make this possible. As you well know its crucial to keep up with necessary repairs before they become overwhelming. As always, thank you for your generous and unfailing support of our parish.
